Roads Moving More Freight Per Day Now Than Ever Before

By RUSS SIMONTON.

N. E. A. Staff Correspondent. BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 15 .- "The railroads of the United States are now moving freight more miles a day than ever before

This is the statement of the Railway Executives' association. The same report adds:

"The roads are reducing the number of cars in bad order and they are not cestions. I'm not making this fight only getting heavier loading per car. but are securing, through the co-operunloading.

MANY OBSTACLES, Regardless of the merits of federal control, no one seriously denies that when the railroads went back to private hands last March, these were the conditions:

the conditions:

1. Thousands of freight cars and miles of track out of repair.

2. Labor "slack" and careless.

3. Congestion of freight and a lack of co-operation on the part of shippers. Hardly had the roads begun their work of reconstruction when the switchmen's strike broke and the whole machinery of railroad operation was disorganized.

In the almost complete "come-back" of America's rallways ALL ARE OPTIMISTIC.

From President J. J. Bernet, who gave me the letters which enabled me to ride the freight trains of the Nickle Plate, to the brakemen on the cars, I found the same spirit of optimism for the future.

Before I left the Stony Island term inal yards of the Nickle Plate at Chi cago on a freight train trip to Buffaio, I spent several days in a short kinder-garten course in the great mystery of railreading. Ben Place, a freight representative, who tried to find a car for me, and brother officials, gave me their views their views.

"Bad order cars, terminal congestion and delay on the part of consignees is responsible for most freight delays," they told me, "Things are better now than they were and we have cleared our own yards rather thoroughly.

"It is hard to make some shippers unload their cars and lift the bills of lading because of the money shortage. Some of them have no storage room. Some of them have no storage room and would rather pay demurrage on the cars than move the goods. They're better now but still we have trouble."

Bernet told me that the little ship-pers and consignees were the greatest 'demurrage offenders." "Sometimes a nuckster," he said, will use our car as his storeroom and alesroom, block a valuable track and salesroom, block a valuable track and keep that car out of service longer than he should."

NO IDLE TERM.

I found the "co-operation of the shipper" is no idle term or matter of theory. Much of the railway's efficiency depends upon the shipper. The interstate commerce commission now advises that all cars be loaded above their marked carrying capacity. That means that a car stendled "20.000.
